Drawing inspiration from the world of high fashion, Aiveen Daly is renowned for her couture-standard work and exquisite detailing, which alludes to Saville Row tailoring. Daly describes her work as “tailoring for walls”, which effortlessly brings together fashion and interiors. Daly works eloquently with luxurious materials from the couture industry, such as hand-dyed feathers used by fashion icons Alexander McQueen and Givenchy. Fine beading, pleating, embroidery, and fabric manipulation are all executed on the finest fabrics and leathers to create unique designs that exemplify thoughtful luxury.
